How to Research

keywords, subject terms, peer-review

•••

Joy Kim
BCC Librarian

Today’s Goals...

1. Understand what keywords are and how to create them.
2. Review “popular” and “scholarly/peer-reviewed” sources.
3. Know how to use two databases at the end of this lesson.
4. Learn how to import citations via email from databases.
5. Evaluate credibility of websites based on CRAAP

NComputing
ProData

Library Se

The π-calculus
A Theory of Mobile Processes
Squeak
Object-Oriented Programming in the Smalltalk Environment
THE SCHEME PROGRAMMING LANGUAGE
Systems Programming with Modula-3
Learning Perl
Programming Perl
Miranda
The Craft of Functional Programming
ELEMENTS OF ML PROGRAMMING
The Little Mlner
The Java Programming Language
Second Edition
The Orbitan Reference Manual
THE C++ PROGRAMMING LANGUAGE
THE C PROGRAMMING LANGUAGE
Structured Communication
Ada 95

The New York Times

Popular Sources

Scholarly

- Examples include journals like Nature or The Journal of Sociology.
- Written by subject experts
- Written for other experts in the discipline and also students.
- Peer-Reviewed Articles are evaluated by other experts before they are considered for publication.

Popular

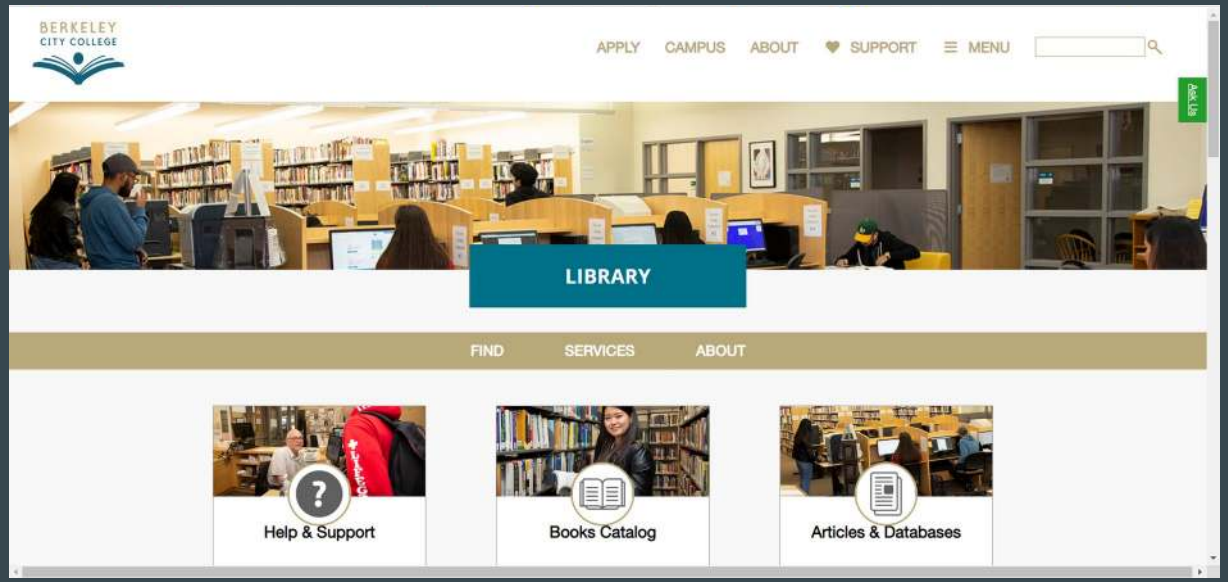
- Examples include: newspapers and magazines like Washington Post or The Economist.
- Written by journalists. Journalists are good writers and researchers, but they are not necessarily experts in the topic they are writing about.
- Written for a broad audience.
- Editors determine what is published

What is Peer-Review?

Berkeley Library Website

Question 1:
What’s the difference between a catalog and a database?

Question 2:
How do I find specific databases or ebooks?



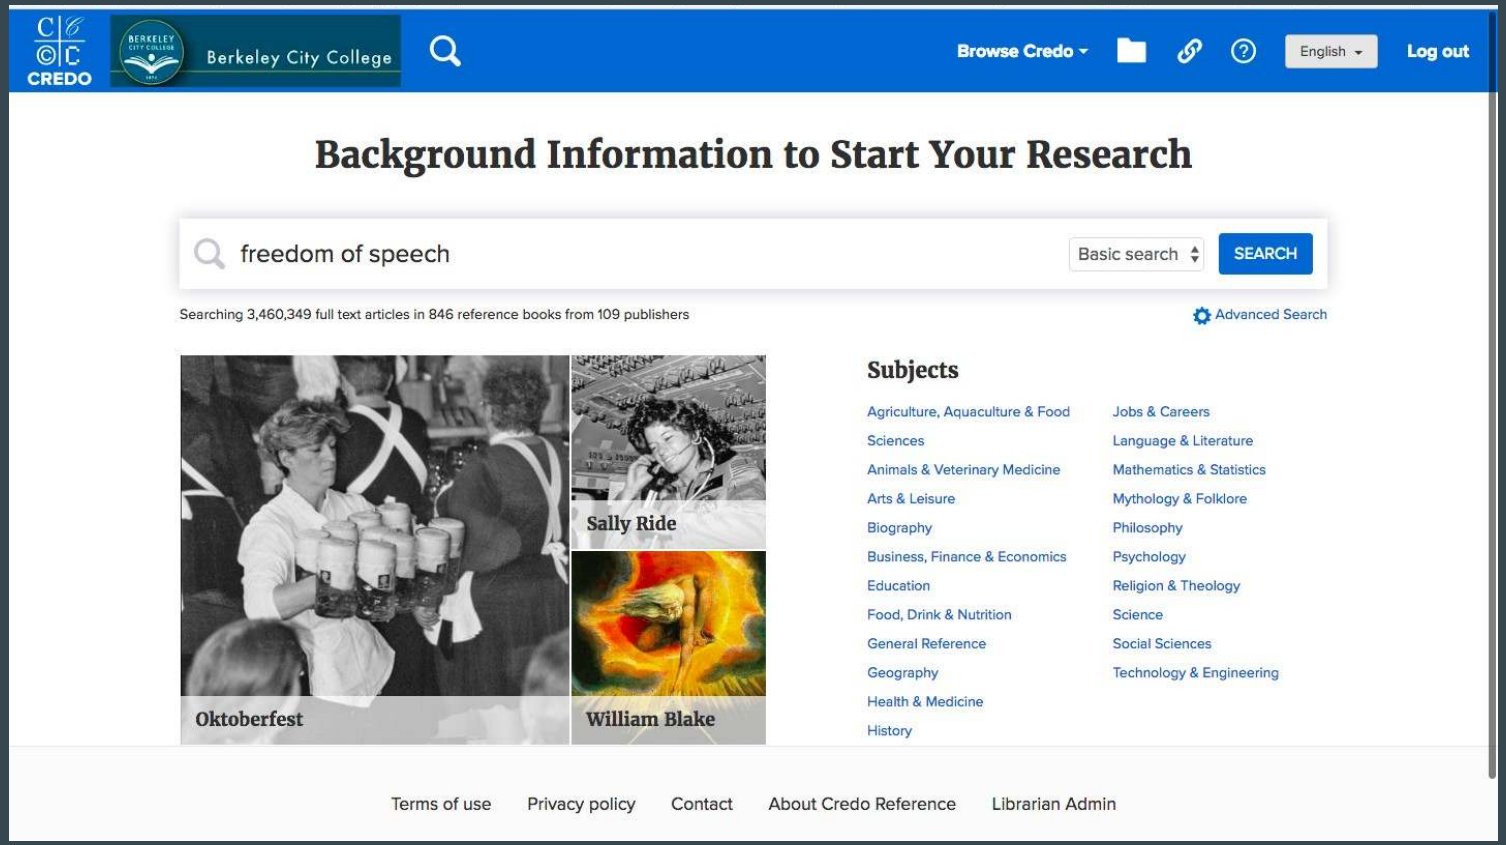
What are keywords?

Keywords are short.

Keywords are nouns and main ideas.

Keywords are synonyms.

Credo Reference (Encyclopedia)



Practice Keywords!

Relocation

Broad--->Narrow--->Related

Broad

Narrow(name, gender, time period, subtype, location, title..)

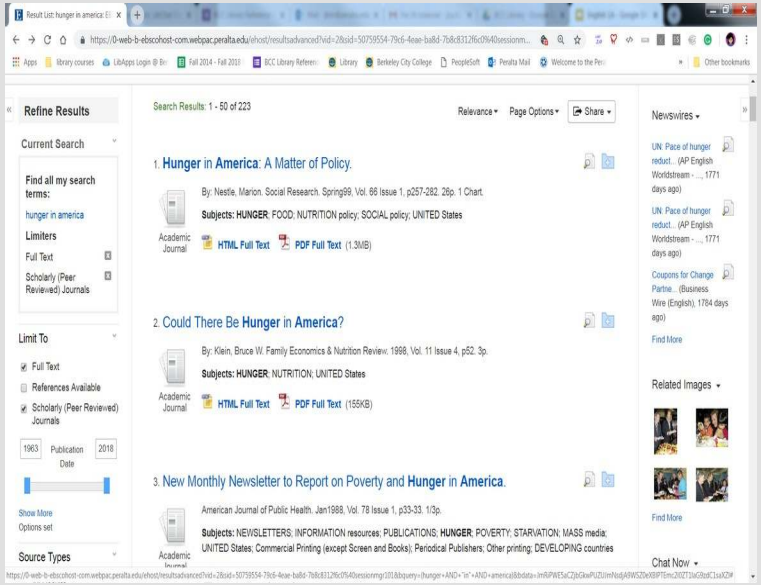
Related

Go to Academic Search Complete Database

1) Type in a keyword for your topic and choose an article.

2) Select the article by clicking on the blue folder with the + sign (you select as many as you like).

3) When it turns yellow click on top menu with the Folder icon.



Academic Search Complete

3 Ways to Search:

•••

- New Search (Basic or Advanced using keywords)
- Subject Terms= drop down menu, limiters, articles
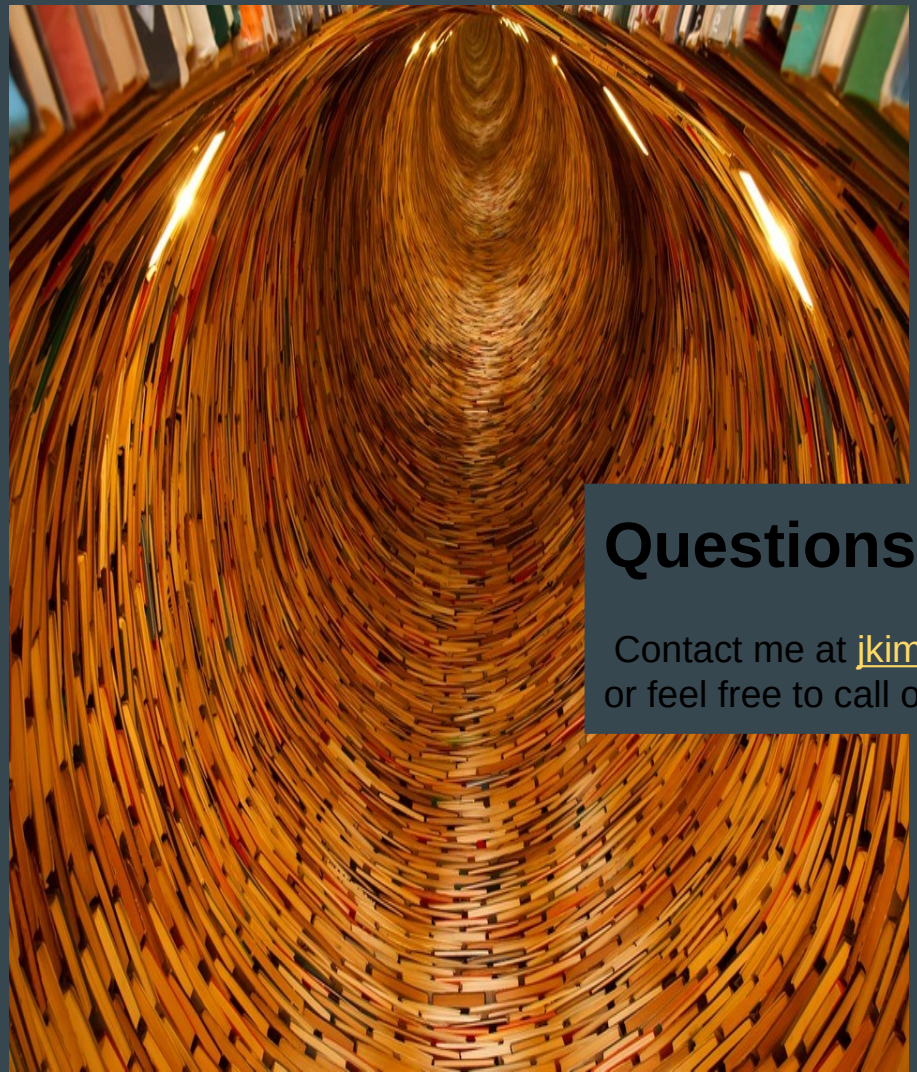
- Index

In pairs do the following:

1) Go to the website: https://hennepintech.libguides.com/evaluatingwebsites
2) Do exercises 2-9 in pairs and score each site based on the CRAAP worksheet (1-50)

Focus on these two questions:

- Which is more credible?
- What factors helped you decide?



Questions?

Contact me at jkim@peralta.edu
or feel free to call or chat with us online!